III. INTERNET ACCESS

The internet offers easy access to a vast collection of information. The Library does not endorse the viewpoints nor can it vouch for the accuracy, authority, timeliness or usefulness of the information found. The internet is an unregulated medium that changes constantly and unpredictably. Brevard County Libraries is in no way responsible for the content of sites on the internet. Since not all sites on the internet are accurate, current or complete, citizens must exercise independent judgment to evaluate the validity and appropriateness of the information found.

Due to critical technical and network security requirements or incompatibility with the Library's computers, some internet sites and services may not be accessible on library computers or via the Wi-Fi system. The Library will block sites that are deemed to contain Viruses, Malware, or any other identified network security risk. These risks will be determined by a reputable, experienced internet filtering vendor and designated Brevard County staff.

Brevard County Libraries cannot in any way guarantee consistent and/or reliable connectivity.

In providing public access to the internet, the Library will remain in compliance with the provisions of the Children's Internet Protection Act (CIPA). Per this compliance, the Library shall endeavor, to the extent practical, to block access to inappropriate matter and visual images on the internet that are defined as "obscene," "child pornography" or "harmful to minors". The Library provides best effort compliance by the use of internet filtering software. The ability to restrict access and exposure to images and information covered by CIPA is subject to the limitations of filtering software. Regarding minors, it is the ultimate responsibility of parents and legal guardians to monitor and guide their own children's use of all library resources, including the internet. Parents are encouraged to take an active role in their children's use of the internet and to talk about their personal values and expectations for their children's use of this resource.

Filters may be temporarily disabled for persons over 18 for bonafide research. Should a citizen require access to a website that is currently unavailable, believed due to the Library's internet filtering software, they may contact a library staff member who will initiate the review process.

Any request for a citizen's internet usage history or otherwise activity on public computers shall be dealt with as outlined in LS-15, Confidentiality of Patron Records.

IV. GENERAL RULES AND LIMITS REGARDING INTERNET ACCESS AND COMPUTER USE

There is no guarantee of privacy in the use of the Brevard County Libraries network/internet services.

Use of the internet or library computers for activities that violate local, state or federal laws is prohibited. This includes activities such as accessing child pornography, committing fraud, hacking, or spreading libel or slander.

Citizens are reminded that the Library's computers and personal devices may be located in public areas that are shared with library users and staff of all ages, backgrounds and sensibilities. Individuals are expected to consider this diversity and respect the sensibilities of others when accessing potentially offensive information or images.

The Library subscribes to the belief that citizens have the right to a secure and safe environment, anyone displaying offensive images of any kind will be asked by staff to exit the images in accordance with the Internet Acceptable Use Statement and Safety Policy.

Citizens are cautioned that the internet is not a secure medium and all transactions, files and communications may be subject to unauthorized access by third parties. The Library cannot in any way guarantee citizen's privacy or security on internet enabled computers or while using the Wi-Fi services. Citizens using the public libraries' internet services should assume an unsecure environment and should take personal measures of security.

The Library cannot in any way guarantee the citizen's external equipment, such as USB drives or personal devices, will be virus or malware free after use at the Library. Nor can the Library be responsible for any loss of data, data corruption, security breaches, or any perceived personal identity/financial information theft while using the Library's internet or any public computer.

The Library cannot in any way guarantee security of electronically transferred information, to or from, via the Library's internet.

It is the responsibility of all users of electronic resources at the Brevard Public Library to respect intellectual property rights. Copyright restrictions may exist for individual electronic resources. Citizens may only make copies allowable by copyright laws or licensed software agreements.

Users of the Library's computers and peripheral equipment are expected to abide by the rules of the Library, including LS-03, Customer Code of Conduct. Copies of these rules are available upon request at any reference desk. Citizens who do not abide by these rules may be barred from the Library, prohibited from using computers or other library equipment and/or prosecuted for illegal activities.

Library staff members are not able to provide in-depth internet or computer assistance but will answer questions and, as time allows, help users locate information via library subscription services, i.e. databases, as well as resources on the internet.

To provide the opportunity for the maximum number of citizens to access library internet enabled public computers, the libraries will establish daily time limits for internet access.
